GOTCH INSISTS ON OLD RULES

Hack Will Not be Given Chance to Hang on Ropes This Time-Sensational Bout Predicted For Labor Day-American Association May Fight Major League-Rain Prevents Games.

Humboldt, Ia., Aug. 31.—Frank Gotch, in his forthcoming Labor day match, when he defends the world's wresting championship against George Hackenschmidt at Chicago, will submit to no rules formulated specially for that occasion. He so informed Referee Smileth at his camp here this afternoon. Gotch said the old rules would be insisted upon, particularly which makes hanging on the ropes a foul. The champion claimed that in the last match Hackenschmidt resorted to that practice. According to Referee Smith, Hackenschmidt will pursue entirely new tactics on Labor day, in order, as Smith quoted him, "to redeem himself" for having played the defensive in the last half hour of his last match with Gotch. Smith brought the information that Hackenschmidt intends to rush the match and be on the offensive all the time.

Gotch left tonight in a special for Gotch left tonight in a special for for the scene of the struggle. Chicago, Aug. 31.—Dr. Roller, who is training George Hackenschmidt, the Russian Llon, for his match in this city on Labor day with the champion. Frank Gotch, declares that the second battle between these glants will result in one of the most sensational wrestling bouts ever witnessed in this country.

Roller states that the bout will be one of brute strength and considerable knowledge of the catch as catch can game against speed and science. Hackenschmidt is the larger man, and if he can successfully use his strength against Gotch's speed and science, the Russian will take the championship back to Europe. That is Roller's opinion.

In Hack's camp, on the north shore, here is an unquestionable air of confidence. The challenger is confident hat he will beat the champien this ime. However, he feels certain that he will have the hardest battle of his career.

Hack says that he is satisfied to know that he has a fair knowledge of the how there will be war.

President Thomas Chivington said: "I intend to call a meeting of the American association in the near future, and until this matter is taken up by my league I cannot say what will In Hack's camp, on the north shore

Since he has been training Hack also has been trying to develop speed. Dr. Roller says that when the two meet Gotch will find Hackenschmidt a fast opponent.

Hackenschmidt has trained hard for this bout since he has been in this country. He got an early start three months ago in England, however, where he trained with Roller. There Roller and other wrestlers put him through a course of training that not only reduced Hack's weight but increased his staying powers as well. Since he has been here Hack has been paying a lot of altention to muscle strengthening. Recently, suspended five feet in the Cincinnati, O., Aug. 31.—The national baseball commission today not only rejected every demand made upon it by the American association, but went farther in stating that if the American association decided not to operate under the rules of organized baseball teams would be placed in av ery city on that circuit. While no mention of a league to do battle with was implied to an extent that could not be misunderstood. The American association is given until Sept. 10 to give an answer to the secretary of the commission, and upon this answer will hinge the question that now is foremost in the minds of baseball men, namely, Will there be a baseball war? In its finding the national commission took pains to place the brunt of the worry on the shoulders of the American association, and it now rests

MARKET INDIFFERENT.

Kept Within a Narrow Range.

New York, Aug. 31.—Following a sharp rise at the opening of the market and a subsequent recession, stocks were kept within a narrow range towere kept within a narrow range to-day. Trading was aimless and traders were indifferent. The chief demand for stocks seemed to arise from the short interest, and buying from that side of the market was largely responsible for the opening advance, in which a num-ber of important issues gained from one to two points. The demand at a higher level was so limited that the market gradually fell back. During the day there were several small movenents arising usually from efforts of pear traders to bring on a renewal of the dacline, but they netted so little that the session ended with only a few thanges of importance.

the dacline, but they netted so little that the session ended with only a few changes of importance.

Pressure was again directed against Lehigh Valley to a marked extent and at one time during the day the stock fell three points from the high mark of the session. It was said in explanation of the heavy selling in this issue during the last two days that the holdings of a large interest in the property had been thrown on the market. Later in the day Amalgamated Copper was attacked in much the same manner, relapsing nearly two points. The similarity in the two movements gave rise to the belief that both were bear raids, intended to facilitate short coverings. Lehigh Valley's bottom price of the day was the lowest of the year.

Business fell to the smallest proportions of several days. The decision of the governors of the exchange to close it on the Saturday preceding Lahor day, resulting in a triple holiday over the coming week end, was largely responsible for the day's dullness, as traders were not inclined to increase their commitments, especially in view of uncertainty as to what may develop in regard to the labor situation. Interest continued to turn largely upon the prospects of strikes on the Harriman and other lines. The situation is regarded as of such importance, especially in view of reports of growing unrest on the part of employes of various other lines, that it is expected to act as a deterrent to market activity, until the issue shall be shaped more clearly.

A sharp advance in the cotton market

A sharp advance in the cotton market was ascribed to expectations of an unfavorable showing of the government's forthcoming cotton report, which was foreshadowed by private advices from the south. The movement apparently found no reflection in the stock market.

Securities of both the great corporations against which the supreme court entered decrees in the anti-trust suits were active today. Transfer books of the Standard Oil company closed today and transactions in this stock in the outside market were consequently for cash only. An offer was made of 210 for the stock "ex-subsidiaries," but traders refused to deal in the issue on those terms until a better opportunity is presented of determining their value. Various plans were afoot today to prevent violent fluctuations in quotations tomorrow, but at afoot today to prevent violent fluctua-tions in quotations tomorrow, but at the close of the day it was uncertain what course the trading would take. American Tobacco securities were strong throughout the session. A fa-vorable inference was drawn from the announcement that the courts had sanctioned a plan whereby the com-puny would defray expenses of the re-organization committees. organization committees.

was refused. Joy was suspended for not reporting. Cincinnati, O., Aug. 31.—Whether or Cincinnati, O., Aug. 31.—Whether or not the American association will withdraw from the national agreement and declare war on the major leagues is now up to the members of that organization, the national baseball commission having denied all its demands at a meeting held here today. The commission gave the American association until Sept. 10 to answer whether they will operate under the national agreement. At the same time the commission made it plain that if the association decides to withdraw from the national agreement, organized baseball would continue to flourish in the eight cities of the association.

When President Chivington of the American association learned of the decision of the commission he would not say what action his organization would take.

THE GAME HAS CHANGED And so Kid Elberfeld of St. Louis Has Adopted More Peaceable Tactics.

He isn't the same old Kid Elberfeld. It was a dull afternoon when the Elberfeld of several years ago did not see into some argument with the umpire. But no more, says the St. Louis Post Dispatch.

He realizes that the game has changed since he began scrapping with the boys in blue, almost 15 years ago, and he's the truly peaceable player nowadays.

While Elberfeld admits that he had be the began to the bear of the peace of the peace down his past life."

"The game's different now," said Elberfeld, who was here with the Washington team last week, "You can't lifth the umpires and win ball games now. But several years ago you had to fight or lose.

"I have often been asked whether it did any good to threaten the umpires and occasionally take a wallop at one of them. My answer is that if you didn't stand up for your rights they'd give you the worst of it. If an umpire made a mistake in the rowdy days the whole team would crowd around him and threaten his life. Would that scare him? I should say yes, and the next time a close decision came up he would even up for the bad one previously handed down.

"I still give the umpires arguments. But not like in the olden days. In fact, an umpire, if he's a good and fair one, rather likes a little calldown, now and then. He doesn't want you to call him so the stands can hear or get next to the fact that he pulled a bad one, but if you say: 'Here, old chap, that was a pretty bad one you handed us that time: watch out next a bad one, but if you say; here, old chap, that was a pretty bad one you handed us that time; watch out next time, he'll respect you.

"I was often accused of things I was not guilty of years ago. I always was being fined and suspended. One of the plays that I distinctly remember and that always causes me to laugh happened one day when Osie Shreck was spiked.

"I was then with the Detroit club, and three of us got pocketed at third base. I happened to be the last man. Rather, I had run around from first base, and, seeing the predicament, I told the other fellows to dash for home, thinking that not more than one of us would be put out.

"The fellow who had been on third bumped Shreck at the plate and spilled him, besides spiking him. The next fellow and I also tore in, not gently, and were safe. As I was sliding over the plate I saw a strip of Osie's stocking hanging down his leg, and when I got up I was surprised to have him accuse me of doing the spiking. I got a ten day layoff for that.

"But I'm behaving myself now. Like a good many players, I wouldn't be sore if I got hold of a good ball club. My former reputation may work against me, but I'm trying to prove that I'm not as much of a rowdy as I was painted."

On the ball field Elberfeld is any-the boys in the bo feats commonplace, while it reduced the importance of teh pitcher to a minimum. The experiment with the lively ball has proven that the public is well satisfied with the game ts it was and is now played. The clamor for more hitting was confined to a select few who believed that the public agreed with them. A lesson has been taught by the failure of the lively ball. Pitchers' battle, in which every move counts, furnishes the most enjoyable games. The popularity of the sport is conclusive evidence that the patrons of the game are satisfied, and that there is no need for any changes being made in the rules or the ball.
